We welcome this extremely useful publication which as the title suggests, is master key to the Journal "ALL INDIA REPORTER 2002". This single volume publication meets the long felt need of busy lawyers for a compact and handy reference guide to the voluminous Journal arranged and bound court-wise. The present publication has indexed case law reported in AIR 2002 in an abridged manner, Act-wise and section-wise, and also topic-wise making reference to the Journal AIR 2002 very easy and convenient. In the process of abridging the headnotes, due care has been taken not to lose the completeness of the proposition laid down by various courts. But for the omission to supply page numbers against entries in the nominal table, which could have better served the purpose of including nominal table in the publication, there is no possible criticism against this publication of practical utility designed to serve as a court companion. The book, with an exhaustive table of contents added, will certainly serve as a useful book of reference, which can be easily carried to courts like a court diary and will be found extremely useful at a pinch when arguing cases in courts. The publication is moderately priced at Rs.400. The print and get up are good.
